QUICK GUIDE TO LOAN PROGRAMS

Below is a quick guide to some of the most common types of loans. There are many choices available when it comes to home financing. That's why we're here to help simplify your decision-making and determine the best option for your financial situation!

	MINIMUM DOWN PAYMENT	STANDARD MAXIMUM LOAN AMOUNT	MAXIMUM INTERESTED PARTY CONTRIBUTIONS
CONVENTIONAL LOANS Conventional loans are the most common type of mortgage loan. They're provided by a bank or private lender and typically offer higher loan limits than government-backed loans. Generally have higher interest rates than government-backed loans. Gift funds allowed	3% of purchase price	$832,750 for single-unit home	2% investor purchase 3% when LTV is greater than 90% 6% when LTV is between 75.01%-90% 9% when LTV is 75% or less
FHA LOANS FHA loans are insured by the Federal Housing Administration (FHA). The interest rates are comparable to Conventional loans but are more flexible in terms of credit history. May have higher mortgage insurance premiums, which are paid for the life of the loan. Gift funds allowed	3.5% of purchase price	$541,287 for single-unit home, will vary by county	6% of purchase price
VA LOANS[1] VA loans are guaranteed by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) and are available only for veterans, active military, reservists, and surviving spouses. Gift funds allowed	100% financing available for VA-eligible borrowers[1]	$832,750 for 1-4-unit homes	4% of purchase price
USDA LOANS[2] The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) assists approved lenders in offering low- and moderate-income households the opportunity to own homes in rural areas. These loans have stricter guidelines on credit and specific geographic limitations. Gift funds allowed	100% financing available for USDA-eligible borrowers[2]	100% of appraised value plus guarantee fee,	6% of purchase price
